SCOTTSDALE, AZ--(MARKET WIRE)--Jan 29, 2008 -- The Suggestion Box, Inc. (Other OTC:SGTB.PK - News) dba www.MaskMail.com announced the long awaited launch of its Premium Domain Names. The new service provides subscribers the opportunity to use approximately 1500 various domain names with their own user name or a fictitious name to send them anonymously. Sports, Politics, Entertainers, Musicians, Personals, Special Occasions and Relationships are all included. The company is suggesting that Internet users stop advertising the names of Yahoo!, Gmail, AOL or Hotmail, and use a tagline that sends the message that they want to say or their occupation. Check out www.MaskMail.com for more information.

Subscribers can send an email with "YourName"@ILoveThePatriots.com, "YourName"@IWantYouToBeMyValentine.com, or "YourName"@Don'tVoteHilary.net; or for a business, "YourName"@YourFriendlyFinancialAdvisor.com or "YourName"@YouFriendlyPlumber.com; or if a sender didn't want to be identified by the recipient, they could use "fictitiousname"@YourFeetSmell.com, which can be sent anonymously.

For $9.95 for a year, the subscriber will have use of all the names and be able to send out as many emails as they want. The company is also developing a group of templates that correspond with the email addresses, with the majority of the templates being animated.
